

Idaho Physical Therapy Association
MISSION STATEMENT

The mission of the Idaho Physical Therapy Association (IPTA), the principle membership organization representing and promoting the profession of physical therapy in Idaho, is to further the profession's role in the prevention, diagnosis, and treatment of movement dysfunctions and the enhancement of the physical health and functional abilities of members of the public through education, research, and evidenced-based practice.

VISION STATEMENT

By 2010, physical therapy in the state of Idaho will be an autonomous profession, evidenced by its ability to self-govern, self-regulate, and self-discipline; have financial control of the practice of physical therapy; be reimbursed appropriately; and physical therapist be recognized by the general public as practitioners of choice with direct access for the diagnosis of, interventions for, and prevention of impairments related to movement, function, and health.

Physical therapist may be assisted by physical therapist assistants who are educated and licensed to provide physical therapist directed and supervised components of interventions.

IPTA will be a financially vibrant and efficient organization and will have a majority of Idaho physical therapists and physical therapist assistants as members.

IPTA will promote education, research, and evidenced-based practice.
